Summary Report on Voter Awareness Programme

Objective : An election is a formal group decision-making process by which a population chooses an individual or multiple individuals to hold public office. Elections have been the usual mechanism by which modern representative democracy has operated since the 17th century.

Outcome : Voter Awareness Forum (VAF) is an informal forum for generating discussions and awareness around the electoral process, on the how, what and where of registration & voting, through the medium of real-time activities

Activity: Voter Awareness Programme

Report :

Systematic Voters' Education and Electoral Participation program, better known as SVEEP, is the flagship program of the Election Commission of India for voter education, spreading voter awareness and promoting voter literacy in India. Since 2009, we have been working towards preparing India's electors and equipping them with basic knowledge related to the electoral process.

SVEEP's primary goal is to build a truly participative democracy in India by encouraging all eligible citizens to vote and make an informed decision during the elections. The programme is based on multiple general as well as targeted interventions which are designed according to the socio-economic, cultural and demographic profile of the state as well as the history of electoral participation in previous rounds of elections and learning thereof.

We are always looking forward to achieving the aim of building a stronger democracy through greater synergy with Civil Society Organisations, Media and Corporate Houses and even greater queries, suggestions, and participation from individuals.

It was only a couple of years ago that the Election Commission of India decided to implement the idea of appointing "Voters' Awareness Observers" whose job will be to see the level of information and motivation among the voters. The primary objective behind appointing these observers is to ensure that the voters remain motivated enough to cast their votes.

Vote for India is considered the country's first campaign that publishes yearly research based report on the performance of Indian MPs and other "Representatives at Work", which gives voters a fair idea of who has walked the talk and who has failed to keep up to their expectations.

Besides the performance of people's representatives in Parliament, the website of Vote For India is also replete with wide range of information pertaining to democratic process and electoral system. The website also has audio-visual content and real-life stories that motivate voters to cast their votes. The offline campaign of Vote for India adopts different strategies to target each group of voters.

What has greatly helped their cause is their work towards accumulating information, documentation of data, and dissemination of the findings of research through several mediums.

In democracy, it is not simply enough to inform voters about election dates. In order to help the electorates take an informed decision, it is quintessential to sensitive them about the importance of participating in the electoral process. Moreover, voters need to be educated about the process and made aware of the political parties, their manifestos, backgrounds of the contesting candidates and armed with several other information to help them cast an 'enlightened' vote.
